Rosa Parks Day (December 1)

Museum of Television and Radio

New York, NY

URL: <http://www.mtr.org>

Contact: (212) 621-6663 or distancelearningny@mtr.org

Cost: $125

Session Length: 2 segments, 1 hour each

Advance notice required: 2 weeks

The Museum of Television and Radio offers classes via videoconference that include clips from the collection to provide information, stimulate conversation, and encourage media literacy. For Rosa Parks Day, try The Civil Rights Movement and Television videoconference. By watching significant television work from that era, students explore the role that television played in recording and shaping the struggle for equal rights in America. This trip is intended for students in grades 9 through 12.

Drunk and Drugged Driving Prevention Month

HealthSpace Cleveland

Cleveland, OH

Contact: (216) 231-6900

Cost: $135

Session Length: 40 minutes

Advance notice required: 2 weeks

As the country's number one provider of health and life science education, HealthSpace Cleveland brings real-life learning experiences into the classroom. This month, try the Drugs 301 videoconference, which is intended for students in grades 7 through 12. Students will discover the real costs of substance use and abuse, critique glamorous advertisements for tobacco and alcohol, and see how the media influences attitudes about drug use. Students will learn to make healthy personal choices for a drug-free lifestyle.
